

Is there a difference in sound between the wedge and cube designs of mambo amp ?

There isn't any difference in sound that i can hear... other than the wedge has the advantage of being tiltable, so you can hear it better if it's on the floor etc...

The reason the cube exists at all is simply that some people do prefer a more traditional rectangular shaped cabinet. The wedge is the original design and I would always recommend it as it has some practical advantages, but the sound is not at all noticeably different.